

Quality librarian education in unexpected places!

Authors:

Jean P. Shipman, Vice President Global Library Relations, Elsevier

Colleen DeLory, Director of Community Marketing, Elsevier

Library Connect

Library Connect has been in existence for over 16 years and shares library and information science best practices, issues, technology and trends. Registered librarians receive a quarterly newsletter, invitations to quarterly webinars, and can access educational content via the Library Connect website.

A screenshot of the Library Connect website homepage. The header features the title "Library Connect" and a search bar. Below the header, there's a main banner with the text "TELLING THE STORY OF RESEARCH IMPACT". To the right, there are sections for "RECENT WEBINARS" and "What are some of these new roles? (or new ways to be visible)". The left sidebar includes links for "Articles", "Subscribe", and "Featured resource". The right sidebar features a "Twitter feed" and a "COUNTER" section.

Research Data Management Library Academy (RDMLA)

RDMLA is an online educational program to be launched late 2019, offering individuals the opportunity to learn about research data management practices. The program is being developed by a team of librarians who have expertise with RDM, and offers eight units which can be taken separately or as a group, with all units being hosted via the Canvas platform.

For more information see: <https://rdmla.github.io/home/>

A screenshot of the RDMLA Curriculum page. It shows a list of "8 Unit + 1 Assessment Unit (for CE)" under the heading "RDMLA". The curriculum includes topics such as Foundations of RDM, Navigating Research Data Culture, Advocating and Marketing the Value of RDM in Libraries, Launching Data Services in Libraries, Project Management & Assessment, Overview of Data Analysis and Visualization Tools, Overview of Coding Tools, and Overview of Platform Tools.

Copyright © 2019 Elsevier B.V.
All rights reserved

Scopus Certification Program

This online invitational Scopus Certification program began in 2018 and consists of six modules. The modules are designed to give librarians greater insight into research sources, collaboration and metrics, allowing them to use that knowledge to expand training and consulting options with their library users.

